

Caroline de Jessey appointed Chief Communication Officer for the Korian group

Caroline de Jessey joins the Korian group in the role of Chief Communication Officer.

Caroline de Jessey, 54, holds a postgraduate degree in Modern Literature from Paris X University. She has an extensive background in communication and public relations, having worked in both the corporate sector - at the Lagardère group (Matra Transport), and the SNCF group, where she was Communications Director for Gares et Connexions (2010-2014), then SNCF Immobilier (2014-2017) - and in the public sector, as head of the press department then Communications Director at the French government's Strategic Analysis Centre (2004-2010). Prior to that, she worked in an agency of the BDDP group.
